

Bookminders CEO Jessica Minkus Recognized at Pittsburgh Magazine's Women & Business Networking Awards

Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, May 21, 2025 – Bookminders CEO Jessica Minkus was celebrated as one of four honorees at the Spring 2025 Women & Business Awards, presented by Pittsburgh Magazine and S&T Bank. The event, held at the National Aviary on May 20, honored women who exemplify leadership, innovation, and impact within the Pittsburgh business community.

Minkus was recognized alongside Shaquala Swinton-Betts of PAIR Charcuterie, Maria Bernardo Brady of Marakae Marketing, and Bobbie Loesch of iHeartMedia. The evening featured dedicated time for networking, a spotlight on nonprofit partner UPMC Children's Hospital Foundation, and a keynote presentation from Ki Ki B. Jones, a media personality, businesswoman, and DEI advocate. Her talk, How I Got Here: 5 Lessons I've Learned Along the Way, offered insights drawn from her 25-year career in radio and communications.

"It's truly special to be recognized among such accomplished women who make a difference across our city," said Jessica Minkus, CEO of Bookminders. "At Bookminders, we believe that empowering people, both our employees and the clients we serve, leads to stronger communities and a more impactful business environment."

Under Minkus' leadership, Bookminders has continued to innovate as a remote-first accounting firm serving nonprofits and businesses across the United States. Known for its flexible culture and high-performance standards, the company has earned national recognition for workplace excellence and industry leadership.

For over 15 years, the Women & Business Networking Awards has celebrated the women shaping the region's professional landscape. Bookminders congratulates all of this year's honorees for their exceptional contributions to business and community!

All Recognition

Share Article

Previous Post

Back to Newsminders®

Next Post

BOOKMINDERS®

QUICK LINKS